Triax Patching....

Trompeter's patching products are also designed to meet the broadcast industry's requirements for patching triax camera cable with cost effective connections. This approach allows patching directly from the cameras through patch panels for distribution to other locations. This is ideal for cable management, from cameras directly to monitors, recorders, or displays, allowing complete routing through the system. Trompeter's panel design accommodates coax jacks as well as triax jacks allowing for multiple cable types through the same panel.
